THE SNAG: Redness.

THE SNAG: Expression lines and unwanted creases.

THE SOLUTION: Snooze, don't lose. If you've deep expression lines, let Frownies facial pads hold muscles in their natural position as you sleep to soften lines. Use for at least three hours every night to see results in about a month. $54 for 144 patches available at Watson's, The Living Pharmacy and Apothecary+Co.

THE SNAG: Wrinkles.

THE SOLUTION: Clarins Double Serum Generation 6 ($136) boasts the most recent advances from Clarins Research. The anti-ager utilises a host of ingredients from green algae to London rocket seed to reactivate your skin's five vital functions: hydration, nutrition, oxygenation, protection and revitalisation.

CELEB Sighting

In Chicago recently to launch the new Estée Lauder fragrance, Pleasures Delight, Gwyneth Paltrow found herself getting more attention than she wanted, thanks to Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie. Her former fiancé and his partner were in town to plug Jolie's new movie, Wanted. Unsurprisingly, hordes of paparazzi followed along to the hotel where all three stars stayed. Annoyed as she might have been, Paltrow still cheerfully signed bottles for over 250 customers and gave countless media interviews, without any signs of consternation on her pretty mug.

is now available at L'Oréal Professionnel partner salons to give you bouncy, "O"-after an eight-month renovation; its feminine new design pays tribute to Coco.
